

Internationally recognized artist and author Robin Hopper details survival strategies for developing a personal lifestyle as a creative artist. The text is a combination of pragmatism, practicality and philosophy, liberally spiced with humour and anecdotes from Hoppers 45 years of personal experience. The book also incorporates the personal life stories of 19 full-time studio artists. Between them, these artists have more than 500 years of studio experience in the art of staying alive. Also includes, from four specialists in the field, information on legal and financial matters, how to approach magazine publishers and tips for photographing work.
